Combining EHS Platforms

Currently, NAIP and NASP share environmental, health and safety (EHS) training, information, policies and reporting on separate online platforms. This creates challenges for collaboration between the two business units and can cause inconsistencies in policies, resources and messaging provided to facilities.

Part of the process of consolidating platforms includes the consolidation of EHS policies so all North American facilities operate under the same set of policies and procedures for implementing those policies. The consolidated platform will also enable uniformity in training and safety campaigns across facilities in both business units as well as facilitate consistency in reporting metrics. In addition to the practical benefits, the consolidated platform is expected to result in a $65,000 cost savings annually.

“By combining EHS Insight Platforms, we achieve a significant cost savings and, more importantly, standardization between the business units in our policies and training materials without having to duplicate distribution efforts,” commented Rick Capps, NAIP Director of Environmental Health and Safety.

CURRENT STATE

NAIP and NASP use separate EHS Insights platforms.

THE PROBLEM

Separate platforms can cause inconsistencies in policies, resources and messaging provided to facilities.

FUTURE STATE

A consolidated platform (EHS Insights) saves operational cost of maintaining two sites and enables uniformity in training and safety campaigns and consistency in reporting metrics.
